

Reading the Market

Curriculum Document

Level: Beginner

Prerequisite: Trading 101

Recommended Duration: 3–4 weeks

Primary Goal: Teach the student to read charts and interpret price behaviour at a basic level.

Course Description

Reading the Market is the second foundational course in Chart Coach. It builds on the concepts introduced in Trading 101 and teaches learners how to move from simply seeing a chart to understanding what the price is showing them.

Students gradually learn how to read price charts, identify basic price movements, compare different periods, understand simple market direction, and recognize important areas on a chart.

The course intentionally avoids advanced strategies and complicated indicators. Instead, it develops the learner's ability to observe, describe, and reason about market behaviour.

Course Structure

The course is broken down into roughly 10–12 small modules, so that each module teaches one clear concept.

Module	Topic	What the Student Will Learn
1	Revisiting the Chart	The basic structure of a chart; identifying price and time
2	Understanding Candles	Understanding the body of a candle and its basic movement
3	One Candle vs Many Candles	The difference between looking at a single candle and looking at multiple candles together
4	How Price Moves	Observing upward, downward, and sideways price movement
5	Reading Direction	Identifying, at a basic level, which direction price is generally moving on a chart
6	Rising & Falling Markets	Recognizing simple rising and falling price sequences
7	Sideways Markets	Understanding the situation when price is clearly not moving up or down
8	Important Price Areas	Noticing areas on a chart where price has repeatedly reacted
9	Comparing Time Periods	The basic concept of viewing the same asset across different time periods
10	Reading a Chart as a Story	Viewing multiple candles/movements in sequence to describe price behaviour

Module	Topic	What the Student Will Learn
11	Basic Chart Analysis Practice	Solving observation-based questions on given charts
12	Market Reading Challenge	Testing basic interpretation by showing the student unseen charts
